

First Responders for General Aviation Accidents

Any one of us could become a First Responder. Would you know what to do? Who to call? How to keep yourself safe while trying to help others? Are you aware of the unique and possibly hazardous characteristics of certain aircraft - and how to avoid the danger? Mike McNerny, an FAA Manager working with FedEx, will talk about all of this and more. Lunch will be served after the event for those who registered on-line or by calling the airport prior to the event.
